

JND eDISCOVERY EXPERTS PRESENT AT 2018 ING3NIUS
NORTHERN CALIFORNIA eDISCOVERY RETREAT

Scott Lombard and Ben Sexton Provide Insight on Strategies to Avoid eDiscovery Pitfalls

SEATTLE, April 24, 2018—Leading industry experts from JND eDiscovery, a subsidiary of JND Legal Administration, will be speaking at the upcoming 2018 ING3NIUS NorCal eDiscovery and Information Governance Retreat taking place April 29-30 in Carmel, Calif. Senior Vice President Scott Lombard and Director Ben Sexton will present on a panel titled “Blowing the Whistle” that will examine the misuse of eDiscovery as a device against adversaries and strategies for legal professionals to avert such pitfalls.

“The purpose of eDiscovery is to increase transparency and improve the court’s ability to settle disputes fairly,” Sexton comments. “Unfortunately, not everyone plays by these rules and eDiscovery can be misused to drive up costs and inflict burdens on their opposing parties. Our panel will shed light on this practice with real-world case examples and actionable steps that legal teams can take to avoid these scenarios.”

With its in-depth expertise and proprietary technology applications, the JND eDiscovery team has earned a reputation for its high level of responsiveness and creativity, helping clients to identify and prioritize solutions and make real-time decisions. Among other milestones, JND’s eDiscovery team has developed LayerCake, a propriety application to increase the value using data analytics and technology-assisted review, using the Relativity One technology platform.

The ING3NIUS event series was created to serve as an informative and interactive gathering of corporate executives, in-house lawyers, outside counsel, judges, thought leaders and top-rated eDiscovery and information governance service and technology providers. The goal of the NorCal retreat is to educate its attendees about the effective design and implementation of effective and legally defensible eDiscovery and information governance programs.
